THE BABIES IN THE TENEMENTS. It is not surprising that, with the munificient contributions of the people of New Yora to the fund for the sufferers by the Conemaugh floods, other worthy benefactions should be temporarily neglected. The record of New York's generosity in the recent emergency commands universal applause, and we are exceedingly proud of our sympathetic people.

But, while there is suffering abroad, there is suffering unto death among the poor of our city, especially the helpless children who need medical attendance to keep them alive during the season of oppressive heat and its attendant ills.

THE EVENING WORLD'S Sick Babies' Fund is deserving of generous aid. It seeks to minister to the comfort of the destitute, Human lives by the score will be sacrificed if the philanthropic work undertaken by THE EVENING WORLD is not pushed vigorously. Save the little ones in the tenements. Subperibe at once, and generously, to this fund,

A TIME FOR CAUTIOUS ACTION,

As the result of the Coroner's inquest regarding the murder of CRONIN, ALEXANDER SULLIVAN has been arrested in Chicago, and J. J. MOBONEY and CHARLES McDONALD are under arrest in this city awaiting requisition charged with complicity in the crime.

Because these men have been arrested it does not follow that they are guilty of the grave offense charged. They should not be prejudged. It is asserted by their friends that they are the victims of the spleen of

Before MORONEY and McDonald are sur rendered to the Illinois authorities, it is to be hoped that there shall be presented some tangible proofs of their alleged connection with CRONIN's murder. They must not be the victims of a drag-net investigation and be taken from the State of which they are citizens unless a strong prima-facie case is made against them.

It is well to go slow and very sure in a serious matter like this.

IF GUILTY, HE SHOULD BE DISMISSED.

Capt. STEPHENSON, of the Thirty-fourth Precinct, charges Policeman Thos. F. Bunns with being the leader of a "ring of policemen" who, by concerted action, seek to destroy his efforts to preserve order. For this offense he asks simply Bunns's transfer to

VOTING LIKE FOOLS,

Alderman Shea, in refusing to vote for s measure at the meeting of the Board of Aldefmen, yesterday, said that he did not propose to vote "like a fool," without knowing what he was doing or what the effect would be. Without reference to the merits of the particular bill to which Mr. Shea referred, we are moved to remark that if in all legislative bodies there was less "voting like fools" among the law-makers there would not be so much foolish legislation.

The sad fact is that in all so-called ''deliberative" bodies, from Congress down to Aldermanic meetings, the proportion of members who "vote like fools," without any knowledge or care of the effect of their votes, is alarmingly large. There are generally a few "leaders" who do all the thinking, and the rest follow blindly, draw their pay and imagine themselves great.

PUNISHMENT FOR ONE, IMMUNITY FOR THE

OTHER. The punishment prescribed for Capt. ARMES, the doughty, Washington warrior who pulled Gov. BEAVER's nose because of some trouble about the inaugural parade, is that for five years he shall not go further away from Washington than fifty miles. This seems to be pretty rough on Washington, which is blameless in the affair.

The nose-pulling Captain ought, however. to be able to have considerable fun within the limits of his confinement. It must strike Capt. Awars as a trifle singular that while for his little "nosing" affair he is punished President Harrison is every day putting some politician's nose out of joint with impunity.

last month to clerical duty at Police Headquarters, but grew neglectful of duty, and generally behaved so badly that Sunt. Murray called upon the Police Commissioners to transfer Jones.

He was sent back to Capt. Gunner's Precinct, whence he came, but his pride was touched and he determined not to do ordinary police duty again.

Jones went home and for nearly a month has been having a good time in a quiet way. PRETTY MAMIE HAY DROWNED AT A CHURCH EXCURSION.

Struck on the Head by an Overturned Rowbont, She Sank Like a Stone-Others Who Were in the Bont Saved with Great Difficulty-Merry-Making Changed to Grief at Iona Island.

A pretty, auburn-haired girl, with her small, white, shapely hands folded across her breast, lay dead in a plain casket in a front room of the house 122 Charlton street when an EVENING WORLD reporter went there this

Near the coffin was a bed from which the girl arose, healthy and happy in the expectation of a day's pleasure, yesterday morning. Her name was Mamie Hay, and she was twenty years old.

The church Sunday-school held its annual excursion to Iona Island yesterday.

The steamer Hay Queen was chartered, and at 8.30 o'clock left the dock at the foot of King street with a merry crowd on board.

She was accompanied by her mother, a younger brother and sister.

About 2 o'clock the Bay Queen reached the island, and the excursionists quickly landed and scattered in various directions in search of amusement.

Her feet struck the outer gunwale of the boot and overturned it, leaving the five struggling for life in the water.

As the row-boat overturned one edge of it struck Miss Hay on the forehead, and she sank like a shot.

With great difficulty the young men managed to get the other girls safely ashore, and then search was begun for Miss Hay's body. Rev. A. W. Halsey, pastor of the church, ordered all merry-making stopped, and the excursionist mournfully returned on board the Bay Queen and returned to New York.

About an hour after she was drowned the unfortunate girl's body was found.

After a coroner's inquest the body was shipped to New York on the West Shore road, and arrived at the home which she left in such good apirits about 12 o'clock last night, accompanied still by her heartbroken mother.

And She Won't Sing Without an Apology There, New !-- Mr. Ondin Says He Hasn't Done Anything Out of the Way, and Mr. Sevens Is in a State of Mind-A Pretty How D'y' Do.

Just before the benefit performance given at Palmer's Theatre Monday afternoon in aid of the Johnstown sufferers Business Manager Ben D. Stevens and Treasurer Harry Askin, of McCauli's forces, sat sunning themselves on the theatrical stoop, looking upon the Broadway mob and reflecting that the hot day meant a light house. Their meditations were interrupted by Miss Marion Manola, prima donna, who tripped jauntily up to them and standing in front of little Col. Stevens, smiled scraphically at him. She was out for sinted scrainfeath a nearlige dress and a large black hat, but she hardly seemed to be as scraphic as her smile. "How is the jittle Colonel this morning?"

she asked Stevens, gently solicitous.
"Alile to get about," was the reply. "And Miss Marian declared that she was in the be to f health. "But, Benjamin," she said, represcifully, "it was nean to select the second act of "Clover" for me to sing in at the henefit this afternoon. You know I hate don't you?"

'Yes," said Stevens, much amused, 'I res, said Stevens, much amused, I know you hate it, so I thought it would queer you for the evening. See?"
"I see," pouring. "I think you are horrible, Ben. Don't you, Harry?" addressing Manoia, we shall have a conserver mind."

M.ss Manola was then apparently reconciled with Stevens. She talked and laughed and patted his head. Then Mr. Stevens admired the lovely brooch she had in her dress and begged to be allowed to wear it in his scarf pin. But the Manola coquettishly decreased that he musu't dare to touch it. She laughed, and Stevens slaughed, and Askin laughed. A merrier trio could hardly have been found. But there was a storm brewing. Stevens-

Stevens's jest that he intended to queer her for the evening was evidently not to come true, for Miss Manoia gave herself no chance to be queered. Miss Helen Bertram, who had been engaged to fill Manoia's place when that lady took her vacation, was sent up, and she appeared as Stella on Monday night.

Yesterday the prima donna who wouldn't be queered visited Mr. Benjamin Stevens. She was very inste

'I was insuited by Mr. Oudin Monday atternoon," she said.

'He pushed my hand off his shoulder and I won't stand it." Miss Manola has a tiny little white hand. It is almost hidden in turquoise and diamond rings, but despite this fact it is a very pleasant little hand. Mr. Stevens's eyes seemed to express surprise. They seemed to say, "Well, what kind of a hand does Oudin want, in the name of fortune?"

"I consider it an insult," went on Miss Manola, "and I positively decline to play with him again until he makes me an apology," apology."

Stevens is the most pacific little man in the world. The whims of a prima donna are to him a scaled book. He may have remem-bered that Manola had objected to appearing in the second act of "Clover." And he may have thought this an excuse. But he was amiably mum. He tried to soothe her, but she declined. She declined to listen to his verbal soothing syrup and went away.

Mr. Stevens says that Manola's conduct has been utterly unprofessional, and that Oudin is a gentleman. If she did not act, her contract would be, of course, broken. A theatrical contract generally calls for per-formance. Last night, however, Miss Bar-tram was again Stella.

The recommendation was opposed by several of the ablest men in the Section, on the ground that the persons mentioned for the places are not, with one exception, representative union women. SEPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD, CLEVELAND, O., June 12.-Otto Leuth, the sixteen-year-old boy who butchered little Maggie Thompson and buried her mutilated body in the cellar of his home at 24 Merchant avenue, is the object of wonder and amazement to the people of this city. Every one is asking his neighbor what sort of a boy or monster he can be and whether he has previously shown any precocious cruelty or great insensibility in regard to moral responsi-insensibility in regard to moral responsibility.

The showing is rather a bad one for the slim, weak-faced Otto. It seems that he is bright, particularly quick in some branches, such as mathematics, but that he is lazy shiftless, cowardly and a liar.

He has a quick temper. Once he drew a knife and made a dig with it at a clerk in a store where they were both employed. Fortunately only the clothes of the man were cut. Otto pretended that it was a joke and tried to laugh the matter off.

The Evening World correspondent endeavored to secure a talk with the boy, but the officials would not allow it.

the officials would not allow it.

The boy, with all his cowardice, shows a good deal of cunning. When he is in his cell unobserved, as he fancies, there is a list-less sort of droop about him, though at times he sits tapping the floor with his foot, apparently thinking out some plan. When he talks with any one he is inclined to take a whimpering tone and to lapse into tears. He shows no industrion to make a record for shows no indication to make a record for Young Leuth had sense enough to ask to have the two lawyers, whose reputation for success in conducting criminal cases is the best of any in town, selected to defend him. What his defense will be it is hard to tell. But there was a storm brewing. Stevens—suncy, sanguine Stevens—wotted nothing of it. Aliss Manola, being a prima donna, naturally has all the caprices of those ladies—probably a few more on her own little private account. Lord & Taylor Grand Street Store.

My little boy, 5 years old, was rick with a disease for which doctors had no name. The nails came off his fingers, and the fingers came off to the middle joint. For 3 years he suffered dreadfully; is now getting well, and I am satisfied Swift's Specific is the chief cause of his improvement.

John Drink,
Jan. 12, 1889.

Peru, Ind. POISONED BY A CALF-My Intile boy broke out with sores and ulcers, the result of the saliva of a calf coming in contack with a cut finger. The ulcers were deep and painful and showed no inclination to heat. I gave him swift's Specific, and he is now well.
